BI TELEGRAPH TO THE TRIBUNE. ALBANY, April 8, 1867. The Citizens Association by their counsel, Messrs. George F. Noyes and Richard M. Henry, appeared before the Assembly Committee on Cities this afternoon upon he City Tax Levy as presented by the Controller and the Common Council. The Association presented a printed fax lovy covering all legitimate jobjects of city expenditure, but materially diminishing the amounts asked for by our city authorities. Mr. Noyes made an claborate ent upon the various items, showing how much oney could be honestly and profitably spent thereupon. The fax levy of the Association beside, limiting the expanditures to the amounts actually needed, contains some very wholesome prohibitory provisions preventing more than the amount allowed by the Legislature from being expended in any way or incurred through judgments. Some of the amendments to the levy suggested by Mr. Noyes are as follows: First, obliges the Chamberlain to pay all moneys received as interest into the sinking fund. Second, That a three-quarter vote of all members of each branch of the Common Council should be necessary for any appropriation. Third, Obliges the Mayor to select two newspapers in which the Corporation proceedings shall be advertised. Many of the provisions of the levy were dissected by Messrs. Noves and Henry, for instance with reference to the item for Belgian pavements. The Common Council ask for 115,000 whereas the Controller asked only for $50,000; he Council ask for $119,000 for contingent expenses, which means presents to reporters of the Council, and other like jobs. By a sense which means presents to reporters of the council, and other like jobs. By a sense should not exceed $60,000. The like jobs. By a criteriof Christopher Pullman, who examined the matter earefully, Mr. Noves showed that all the legitimate expenses should not exceed $60,000 at the nimost. If the suggestions of the gentlemen are carried out that part of the levy which receives the supervision of the Logislature would be reduced 32 per cent.

An effort was made in the Assembly to-day by Mr. Barber to have his bill placing the ferries of your city and their franchises under the control of the Metropolitan Police referred to the sub-Committee of the Whole thus unahing if forward, but Speaker Pitts ruled it could not ake that reference. There is very little hope of the massage of this or any other bill looking to the same purpose this agestion.

New York. This bill is also ready for the Governor.
Contrary to expectation the Governor did not to night send in a yeto of the Central Fare bill. It is almost universally conceded that he will refuse to sign it.
The Senate Committee on Finance to night reported in favor of only appropriating $25,00 toward building a new capitot. Hearing of this, Mr. Henry Smath made a sarcastic speech in the Assembly on the subject, and also deponaced the statements in the recently published letter of Controller Hillhouse, that the State was rashing to rate.

The only additional depositions taken were those of Dr. Creamer (who made the post-mortem examination), and the widow of the decased. ATTACK UPON A CHURCH AND ATTEMPT TO BREAK UP RELIGIOUS SERVICES.

On Sabbath evenings, for several weeks past, the On Sabbath evenings, for several weeks past, the Rev. Mr. Mattison of Trinity M. E. Church, York-st., Jersey City, has preached discourses to crowded houses, in which he reviewed the sermons of the Rev. Samarius on the authority of the Priesthood of the Church of Rome to absolve repentants of their sins. On Sunday evening, about 8 o'clock, as the reverend gentleman was about to commence his sermon, a stone was thrown at one of the windows in the rear of the church. It was hurled with such force that it broke through the closed blind and smashed a pane of glass. This unexpected attack on the edifice caused great excitement among the audience, and the more timid were about to retire when the reverend gentleman measurably reassured them. Two or three of the congregation went out to discover, if possible, the perpetrators of the outrage, but were unsuecessful. Shortly after their reture, another stone was thrown against a window, breaking two more panes of glass. By this time a couple of officers had arrived, but the assailants had fled. A gentleman who was present at the time, and who investigated the matter, states that the stones were thrown from the yard belonging to the building occupied by the Sisters of Mercy, in the rear of the church, and fronting on Grand-st., to which some evil-disposed person had gained access. From some unknown cause, Chief of Police McManus, and the officers under him, studiously avoided any mention of the occurrence to the reporter, who was at the police faction a considerable portion of the evening.

There were 25 horses in the stable at the time, 17 of which were got out, when the snoke became so dense that it was impossible to reach the others. The firemen were quickly at work, and streams of water were directed to the part of the stable in which the horses stood, and after the lapse of nearly half an hour an entrance was effected, and the animals were brought out unharmed, the streams of water causing a draft of air, and preventing them from suffocating. THE CARPENTERS' STRIKE.

An advertisement in another column announces An advertisement in another column almounces the opening of a new intelligence office, namely, that of the striking carpenters, at No. 287 Bowery. The men who have quit work and as yet failed to get the $4 a day which they demand for their labor, sit together in their hall throughout the day, and attentively listen to the reports of the various committeemen who are canvassing the city and ascertaining who are and who are not paying the advance. Thus the carpenters are enabled to know what is truth and what faischood, and the possibility of any person misleading a striker is put out of the question. Twelve employing carpenters yielded yesterday, and workmen were aupplied from No. 287 Bowery. It was reported that Messrs. Blackstone & Eyerson, builders of the new church in Thirty-fifth-st., between Seventh and Eighth-aves, having been unable to induce men to work at the old rates, have been compelled to quit, and that the church trustees have given the job to the workmen whom Messrs. B. & R. recently employed. Mr. Patrick O'Connor has been compelled to suspend work on the restoration of Mott-at Cathedral. Pecuniary aid has been tendered the strikers, but they have declined to accept, their means enabling them to hold out for some time to come. Previous to the adjournment, last night, it was reported that of about 800 employing carpenters in the city more than 200 are paying $1 a day, and it was voted that any and all members of the Carpenters' Association $10 may be offered $4 a day must go to work.

We are fin receipt of a communication signed William Shaw, President of Carpenters' and Joiners' National Union, to the effect that the journeymen, on the first day of the strike, appointed a committee to confer with the master carpenters, but the offer was refused by the latter. the opening of a new intelligence office, namely, that of

MEETING OF THE NEW-YORK PRACTICAL HOUSE-PAINTERS' SOCIETY.

A regular meeting of this Society was held at their Hall, No. 206 Eighth-ave., yesterday morning. The business transacted was generally routine, the only point of especial public interest being the announcement that the strike of March last had generally resulted in the increase of wages demanded. This Society is in a flourishing con-dition, and the assemblage yesterday evening was very large. large.

SHOEMAKERS' MEETING.

A number of shoemakers met at No. 218 Ninth-ave. resterday evening, to take the preliminary steps toward forming a society by which they can act as a unit in securing an increase of wages. No definite action was taken, but there was a general interchange of views as to the rate of wages employers should pay, and the best means of bringing the subject to their notice. THE STRIKE AT HOBOKEN.

A gang of about 30 Germans from New-York were at work yesterday at the Morris and Essex Railroad coal dock in Hoboken, and were protected from interference dock in Hoboken, and were protected from interference by the men on a strike by a posses of over 30 Sheriff's deputies, under command of Capt. Fred. T. Farrier. The men on a strike were lounging around, and most of them have asked to be taken on again, but the Company refuse to have anything further to do with theim. We learn from officers of the Company that the first statement in some respects was incorrect. The Company did not promise to pay them 25c. an hour, except in cases of "broken" time, of eight hours or less, which they did, and when the men worked over eight hours they received 25c. an hour. At these rates, the time-book shows an average of over $12 per week for each man. The three men arrested on Saturday, charged with inciting a riot, have been admitted to bail in $500 each, to answer at the next term of Court.

A committee of five were then appointed to consult with the Trader' Union, and represent the Painters there. The question of the "strike" of yesterday next came up for consideration, and reports were received from the various shops in the city. It appeared that most of the "bosses" had conbeded the advance in wages, but would not grant the eight hours on Saturday. The meeting was firm in demanding that all members of the Society should leave work at 4 p. or Saturday. COUNSELOR AT LAW.

CORNET MANUFACTURING COMPANY, MANUPACTURERS OF MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS,

BRASS, GERMAN SILVER, AND OTHER METALS. This Company, incorporated under the laws of the State of New York, is now engaged in sannfacturing wind instruments in brass, Germand silver, and other metals apperior to all others. The improvements by which their qualities of excellence have at last been obtained resulted from the skill, experience, ingunaity, and persequence of the cause of the last been secured by letters patently granted in the limited States and in Enrope to Mr. Schreiber, and by ring assigned to this Company.

These improvements relate to the FORM, the ACTION, the WATER-VALVE, and the MEANS OF CONSTRUCTION.

Mr. SCHREIBER has improved the FORM so as to avoid all angles, thereby greatly improving the vibration, and giving power, britisancy, and sweetness to the touck. By as forming the instrument that it shall extend over and rest on the shoulder, the performer is relieved of such labor in sustaining its weight. By a gentle curve, the bell is turned upward, and thus the sound of the different instruments in the entire band or obserts in at one. and, and thus the sound of the different instruments in the entire basis of ordering is at other united and diffused equally spearal, instead of, a formerly, being driven in different directions according to the position of each instrument. The left hand of the performer being thus relieved in the later of suctising the weight, particularly with the larger class of astronomets, can the better control the embouchure, the importance of thick is well known to all saliful performers; and as one hand cannot be unclosed without affecting the other by sympathy, the right hand can cannot be decided by the performance the keep with purch greater facility than what the whole weight when the connect the keep with purch greater facility than what the whole weight

The ACTION has been materially improved in several respects. All The ACTION has been materially improved in several respects. As the parts are manufactured by machinery working with mathematical accuracy, so that the action is a model of precision undatainable by the issual modes of manufacture by hand. The outside shell of each valve, elich, in instruments as heretofore made, is composed of seven different sierces, by the improved construction is formed of one piece, thereby evoiding all liability to leak. It has also been improved by making the immeter of its openings exactly the same as that of the tible, thereby itting more freedom to the passage of the wind. The kers are straighter han in Instruments heretofore made, their operation is more direct, and here loverage increased. The position of the valves is perpendicular, here loverage increased. The position of the valves is perpendicular, which is of great importance, the position of the valves is perpendicular the instrument from being shaken by the movements of the right hash and preventing its distorting influence upon the embouchere. By this change of the position of the valves and the form of the keys, the position of the change and the form of the keys, the position of the change and the form of the keys, the position of the chain and the form of the keys are casy as that of a plane.

The WATER-VALVE is also an improvement of decided value. Many experiments have been made with a view to obtain some means for reading discharging the water without recess, until Mr. Schreiber's invention. The change of positions of the valves, as already mentioned, causes all the water to collect is one place, from which it can be removed with the greatest case and the abortest time by means of a key under the control of the little flager of the left hand, and without removing the instrument from the mostle.

The MEANS OF CONSTRUCTION are an important impo-The MEANS OF CONSTRUCTION are an important improva-all former methods. Aff the instruments unsite by the Schreiber Manufacturing Company are constructed by markfuery, the most tant perts of which are novel inventions, secured to the Company ters patent. By the use of such improved machinery the most parts are made with a degree of accuracy never before attained, a Company can produce instruments of uniform excellence which the warrant to be the most perfect ever made.

TESTIMONIALS.

Attention is asked to the voluntary testimonials which follow, given by gentiemen whose names will be at once recognized as those of most cantenum enablers of the unstead profession:

My Dran Sira: You have marked an era in the history of the orchrists by your intremions for the improvement of brase instruments.

I regard the water-rates, the circular form, and manner of sustaining the weight of the instrument, as improvements, each of very great value-But I am particularly pleased with your plus for a uniform apparal discriming for all the helis. Who would dream—setting saide any question of convenience of arrangement—of constructing an organ in such a nature that the pipes about dopen downward and emit their sounds within a foot, or two of the foot; or of making some of them open toward the front sound demands as much a uniform and spirard direction in the head of sound demands as much a uniform and spirard direction in the head of sound demands as much a uniform and spirard direction in the head of a sound to see a in the organ. Now that you have accomplished an importance that once attentions

Duan Sin: I write to express my pleasure at the remarkable success of your long-continued studies and efforts to improve brase instruments. The substitution of curves for angles, thus giving beauty of outline set the same time that the vibrations are rendered harmonious, and the toms superior to any ret produced, the manner of supporting the weight so as to learn the hands unburdened, and consequently free from the manipulation of the instrument; the ingenious expedients for keeping the instrument free from water; and the direction of the bell upward, as as to excure not only a perfect union of smuch, this also greater purity of toma and securacy of pitch, are improvements which can hardly be tee highly Commended.

The advantages consequent upon giving the bell an upward direction can be peculiarly well appreciated by all leaders of bands and orchedican. As formed by the old and assaid method of construction, in addition to the disadvantage of having the different voices turned in different directions, so to speak, by the direction and position of the bells, the sound is activated to there and quite as great disadvantages. Some material substance is almost invariably before the bell of the instrument when in the same is almost invariably before the bell of the instrument when in the shands of the orchestral performer—either the from part of the stage, a seat, the back of a brother performer, a masse stond, or another instrument, the not only obstructing thy emission of sound, and making it impossible to effect a perfect ensemble but very selfocate affecting the tone and pitch of the instruments. It is not only obstructing the instrument upward, as you have done.

I wish were authorized to thank you in the name of all members of your procession, but as I am not let me, for myself, thank you used earthy for the most valuable improvements, based upon schedulic princeptions. Believe me, my dear Sir, very sincerely your. CARL BERGMANN.

It think you have attained in your great improvement for brass instruments. It think you have arought a complete revolution; not only in the breadful work-wantship, but also for great convenience of playing. The water-valve is certainly a great invention; and as all artists are aware of the great amovance caused by the collection of rater in their instruments while playing, they will not full to appreciate this invention.

I may also add that the tone is much improved, not only in power, but allers aweetness.
